

ABSTRACT

[00030] The present invention provides methods and printers wherein a printer that may also function as a printer for computer output may also be utilized to provide at least one print from a film. One embodiment of the method of the present invention utilizes the steps of scanning a desired portion of the film in the printer to provide a digital image and then printing the digital image.